

Rock Harbor Rocks!

When this course opened some four years ago, there was no denying its potential. Well today, that potential has been realized and then some. Last weekend I caught up with affable co-owner Jerry Wampler. Jerry told of plans to open another 18 holes in the next year and a half. The current back nine will be incorporated into the new 18 which will improve flow of play which means that golfers will have in effect, two new courses.

But, don't wait for the new course as the current eighteen holes are unique among area courses already. Conditions were exceptional as the course had just hosted the annual Boulder Classic. The rough was deep and the pins were tucked to give the course an air of a "superintendent's revenge" tourney. Even the cups were painted white like the TV tournaments. —Ayce

Baltimore Golf News By Rob Wilson

Loren Roberts Wins By Six - Holds Off Watson and Funk

All the big names were in the field this week at the Constellation Energy Senior Players Championship at Baltimore Country Club for the final major on the Champions Tour. This was the first year the event was played at Baltimore Country Club and the players said this was one of the finest courses on the tour. There were some concerns earlier in the week about the greens.

No they weren't in bad shape but maybe a little to much slope and speed for the tour guys. WHAT...too fast for the pros? The officials did have to slow the greens down somewhat but the golf course was perfect. That didn't matter to Roberts shooting in the 60's every day with a final score of 13 under. With Robert's win this week he took over the Charles Schwab Cup points lead over Jay Hass. Fan favorite and second year Champions Tour Player Fred Funk played great for three days but just didn't make the putts on Sunday to keep up with Roberts. While talking with many of the players about the new venue and other topics regarding last weeks tournament the most excitement still seemed to be on the Presidents Cup. We had a great conversation with Champions Tour rookie Jeff Sluman. NO... not about Sluman being a rookie or acting as co-captain to Mr. Nicklaus but about AQUA BOY. Everyone wanted to talk about AUQU BOY. So yes, they are still talking about Woody Austin falling into the pond at 14 at the Presidents Cup. Sluman had a good laugh every time we mentioned it.

Jim Flynn Benefit Golf Tournament at Old Hickory

If you read Pros N Hackers magazine, listen to WTEM Sports Talk 980, or watch the "Local Golf" Television Show on Cox Cable then you probably know Jim Flynn. Jim's been on the local golf scene for years and is a great guy. He suffered a stroke back in January of 2007 and was hospitalized for over two months. He is recovering slowly but it has been a long and expensive journey. On Monday, October 29th join us at Old Hickory in Woodbridge, VA to help Jim out. The day starts with world class instruction clinics from some of the areas best teachers and your $200 entry fee includes green fees & cart, free lessons, breakfast, lunch, dinner, open beverage cart, light open bar, exciting contests, a monster goody bag, incredible prizes, and silent & live auctions.
